

ABSTRACT

The present invention encompasses methods for culturing embryonic stem cells to produce substantially homogenous populations of fibroblasts having a stable, differentiated phenotype.